That there will be suffering, keen and bitter, there is no room for doubt, for the city was unquestionably overcrowded when this conflagration overtook it, and those without means who cannot turn their hands to the work of rebuilding the city will be poorly situated indeed. Helena has been somewhat backward under similar circumstances, a fact that has been freely commented upon by the journals of other cities, and the present offers a fitting occasion to redeem the past.

Following as closely as it does upon the destruction of Seattle by fire, the Spokane Falls disaster contains a warnand and an anomaly "substituting for it states that the sea."
